

Constructed Response Prompt: Human Resources requires all kinds of workers...but specifically great leaders and managers. How have you sought to better yourself by seeking leadership positions in high school? How do you exhibit leadership?

Remember to write in complete sentences.

My experience and drive, combined with my desire to learn, makes me the ideal candidate for this program. I have earned a 4.34 GPA across the entirety of my high school courses, regular, honors, Advanced Placement, and college classes. I am currently ranked near the top of an academically competitive class of seniors. To achieve academic distinction, I have been required to hone time management skills to perfection. My involvement in several activities provided me with a wide variety of essential life skills. From conducting National Honors Society and Student Government activities, I have acquired self-confidence, through the development of public speaking skills and growth of management capability. My Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) experience has fortified these skills.

By participating in Mock Trial, Science Olympiad, and Odyssey of the Mind, not only did I expand my mind but I have also developed crucial public skills such as effective communication and creative problem solving. All my years as a band and color guard member have taught me the importance of working as a team. My time on the varsity tennis team has only reinforced this concept. Being a representative to a variety of local community organizations has given me valuable insight which allows me to peacefully mediate and solve problems between parties. Serving the Tobacco Prevention Program, the Chick-Fil-A Leadership Academy, and the Kiwanis Club representative has strengthened my social skills, verbally and non-verbally.

Between my extracurricular activities and substantial academic load, I have attained the ability to multitask effectively which allows me to excel. My tolerance of change, ability to work with minimal supervision, and commitment to exceeding beyond expectation prove my dedication and determination to achieving excellence in all aspects of life. Outside the classroom, I am dedicated to community service pursuits. These experiences have taught me the significance of giving back and allowed me to further demonstrate responsibility.

I strive to be a caring and driven student who positively impacts our community. Through my strong values and respect for others, I plan to make a huge difference in the world around me. I am a natural leader; it is this impetus, together with an aspiration for greatness that enables me to be successful in all of my endeavors. With an active and outgoing presence in all situations, I strive to get group projects rolling but I also know how to sit back and let others lead. I display tremendous effort and great energy in every task I attempt. I wish to inspire others by demonstrating these skills and characteristics.

I continue to demonstrate diligence, perseverance, and optimism that I hope inspires others to "reach for the stars". I always go the extra mile; where many others stop or give up, I persist until I reach the set goal. I am a trustworthy and reliable student and friend who supports others in and outside the classroom. I eagerly share my knowledge with others and always look for opportunities to learn new skills. My openness to feedback displays how I'm always growing as a learner. My endless curiosity and willingness to take risks allows for constant learning.

If selected for this program, the combination of all this experience will allow me to excel. This program will give me ample opportunities to further develop and improve this skills as well as gain valuable knowledge that will prove to be essential in my future.

The small class sizes lead by experts of their respective fields will allow me more opportunity to learn and have individualized teaching. I will have to the chance to know the personally know and talk to the teacher. The one-on-one talks. I am a visual and hands-on learner so these classes cater to my learning style with the discussion and group based work. In the program, I will be surrounded by like-minded and motivated individuals. As steel sharpens steel, performing next to and competing alongside these students will further challenge me and encourage me to excel. I hope to gain a master's degree in both business administration and political science; the chance to earn both a Bachelor's and Master's degree in four years would tremendously benefit me.

The opportunities provided by the University of Georgia Honors Program constantly displays how it serves to improve the life of any student involved. Honors Program students embody what it means to be dedicated to education to improve life, not only for themselves but for the entire community. If selected as a member, I guarantee I will continue to uphold the ideals and involvement all alumni possess.
